

Abstract:

The present dissertation is titled "Design of a rotating advertising label in the roof of a supermarket " was materialized in the fifth year of study. The purpose of the present project is to design an advertising label in the roof of supermarket which will rotate 360 degrees. The designing was made to be easy for the label construction and for the rotation with satisfactory speed, so that could easily be readable from the publicity, and at the same time to be economic.

Primarily there is a sort introduction for the advertising labels in order to the reader understand better the subject of thesis. Also follows analytic process and the all steps taken for the manufacture of the label. At the end there are all of construction plans for the parts which the label constituted, with all their dimensions.